HIGHLIGHT OF THE YEAR This year marked a pivotal moment in my journey as a real estate professional. Through my unwavering commitment and dedication to the business, I facilitated monthly seminars and homebuyer classes, empowering over 10,000 individuals in the process. This success reaffirms my commitment to being a resource and guide for those navigating the real estate journey.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS I am a multifaceted prism in the real estate world, bringing a unique blend of insight and foresight to my clients. What sets me apart is my commitment to being well-informed about the market—understanding its history, current trends, and future directions. This knowledge allows me to plan effectively for the present while preparing strategically for the future. My approach as a visionary and trailblazer ensures that I provide exceptional value and guidance to those navigating the real estate landscape.

LIFE MANTRA Attitude is everything.
The small things are MEHGA.

MY KIND OF TOWN As a native of Cameroon and the daughter of diplomats, I cherish the global landscape that D.C. offers. This vibrant city allows me to infuse a global perspective into both my work and personal life. I love interacting with people from diverse cultures, which serves as a delightful reminder that I don't necessarily have to venture out into the world—the world comes to me right here in D.C.

PASSION PROJECT I am deeply passionate about humanitarian work and am committed to supporting causes that resonate with my values, whether through time, financial contributions, or other resources. For the past seven years, I have partnered with Lydia's House, a nonprofit organization that addresses community development by providing social services, emotional support, and educational resources to low-income and at-risk families. This involvement has been one of the most rewarding experiences of my life.
